

Grout Colour Chart

If you are unsure how the colour will look in your grout simply order our colour swab kit before ordering any sealing kits, this way you will know exactly how your grout will look before you choose a colour.

Online colour charts are meant to be a guide for colour selection. Actual colour may look slightly different as computer monitor calibrations may vary. Please read tips below in selecting a colour sealer for your floors and walls.

Most tiled floors already have a grey un sealed coloured grout installed, a grey or dark colour grout is what we call a picture frame design if against a light coloured tile. Most tiles that have grey coloured grout suit very well. It all depends on your tastes and needs and your tiles colour, texture and decor.

You may like the grout against the tile to have a seamless look and try to match the colour sealer as close to the tiles colour as possible this gives a great effect as well and can make rooms appear a lot larger. Anyone who has a un sealed light coloured grout installed already knows that it does not stay that way for long but with our colour sealer it does.

Our mist white and alabaster is an off white colour which blends in with any wall or floor tile. Other light colours such as oak, antique ivory, architectural grey are also popular colours to different light coloured designed tiles.

Polished Porcelain tiles go great with Light Pewter one and two, even oak and architectural grey are very popular for certain polished porcelain designs and textures.

Our darker family off colours such as light grey and delorean grey which is a bit darker than light grey blend with most tiles on the market, other colours like malibu sand, jamoca, quarts, charcoal and platinum can be used against all different types of coloured designs your tile might have.

As you can see there are many choices. To make things easy think about how much foot traffic your floor will have and who will be maintaining your colour sealed grout once applied, as light colour sealed grout such as white on a floor may show darker soil residues if not maintained in a proper way remember dirty water evaporates dirt does not.

White grout suits most shower walls perfectly, our bright white is very popular on bright white tile installs. If your tile is a off white choose our mist white or alabaster.

We have 16 colours for you to choose from, if you are unsure of how the actual colour will look on your grout you can order our colour chart brochure where we apply a swab of all our colours for you to cut out and compare.
